

Ode to a Young Tree in Fall

By Glenn Currier

I see the ebb of your small life preparing for a new season you have turned amber gold as you fly on the wind luminescent in the morning sun as you join your tiny breath to the great murmur of earth sweeping across the landscape here in the december of this sad year.

"Ode to a Young Tree in Fall," Copyright 2020 by Glenn Currier Written 12-10-20